

Supported Decision Making and Alternatives to Guardianship

Supported Decision Making Agreements are one of the alternatives to guardianship allowed in Texas. In this webinar, learn why alternatives to guardianship, including supported decision making should be considered first. Most people with disabilities can manage their own affairs with assistance and guidance from a person whom they trust and do not need a guardian. There are many alternatives to guardianship that give people with disabilities support to make decisions without taking away their rights. Learn more about supported decision making agreements, alternatives to guardianship, including responsibilities and limitations, presented by Angel Crawford, Attorney at Law, Disability Rights Texas.
